SAMPLE QUESTION PAPER II
SOCIOLOGY CLASS XII
MARKING SCHEME

1. Caste based movements
 - Mahar Movement in Maharashtra
 - Anti-Brahmin Movement in South India
 - Adi-Dharma Movement in Punjab
 - Satnami Movement in Chhattisgarh

(Any two) 1+1=2
2. Varna and Jati
Varna is an all India phenomenon and Jati is regional or local in nature. There are only 4 Varnas, whereas jatis (including sub castes) number in the hundreds and even thousands. 2
3. Prejudice:
Prejudice refers to pre-conceived and pre-judged opinion or attitudes. Prejudices ignore evidence or examples that go against the belief contained in the prejudice. Prejudices can be positive or negative, though the word is usually used in the negative sense. (We can be positively prejudiced towards people of our own group or kind). 1+1=2
4. Regionalism :
The ideology of commitment to a particular regional identity which could be based on language, ethnicity, and other characteristics in addition to geography. 2
5. Cultural diversity refers to the existence of different cultural groups based on language, race, religion by sect, caste etc. 2
6. Structural changes brought about by colonialism:
 - Urbanization
 - Industrialization1+1=2
7. Preference for Coastal cities:
Coastal cities were favoured by the colonial regime because they offered the means for easy and cheap export of raw materials & primary products (minerals, tea, jute etc) and import of manufactured goods (machinery, textiles etc.). They were the prime link between the economic centre or core in Britain and peripheral margins of colonized India. 2
8. Ways in which colonial labour laws benefited the owners:
 - The laws allowed owners to use unfair and harsh measures to recruit and forcibly keep labourers.
 - The law provided for harsh measures to be taken against the labourers, thus giving owners complete power over their lives.
 - Law was not according to the democratic norms, and allowed for penal sanctions in case of non-fulfillment of the contract by the labourers.1+1=2
9. Pressure groups :
 - Pressure groups are organized by certain groups to fulfil specific interests.
 - They primarily lobby with the government to pursue specific interests in the political arena.1+1=2

Social Change and Development in India

certain groups feel that their interests are not being taken up, they may move to form an alternative party. Or they form pressure groups who lobby with the government. Interest Groups are organised to pursue specific interests in the political arena, operating primarily by lobbying the members of legislative bodies. In some situations, there may be political organisations which seek to achieve power but are denied the opportunity to do so through standard means. These organisations are best regarded as movements until they achieve recognition.

Every year at the tail end of February the Finance Minister of the Government of India presents the Budget to the Parliament. Prior to this there are reports every day in the newspaper of the meetings that the various confederation of Indian industrialists, of trade unions, farmers, and more recently women's groups had with the Ministry of Finance.

EXERCISE FOR BOX 3.14

Can they be understood as pressure groups?

It is obvious that all groups will not have the same access or the same ability to pressurise the government. Some, therefore, argue that the concept of pressure groups underestimate the power that dominant social groups such as class or caste or gender have in society. They feel that it would be more accurate to suggest that dominant class or classes control the state. This does not negate the fact that social movements and pressure groups also continue to play a very important role in a democracy. Chapter 8 shows this.

Max Weber on Parties

Whereas the genuine place of classes is within the economic order, the place of status groups is within the social order...But parties live in a house of power...

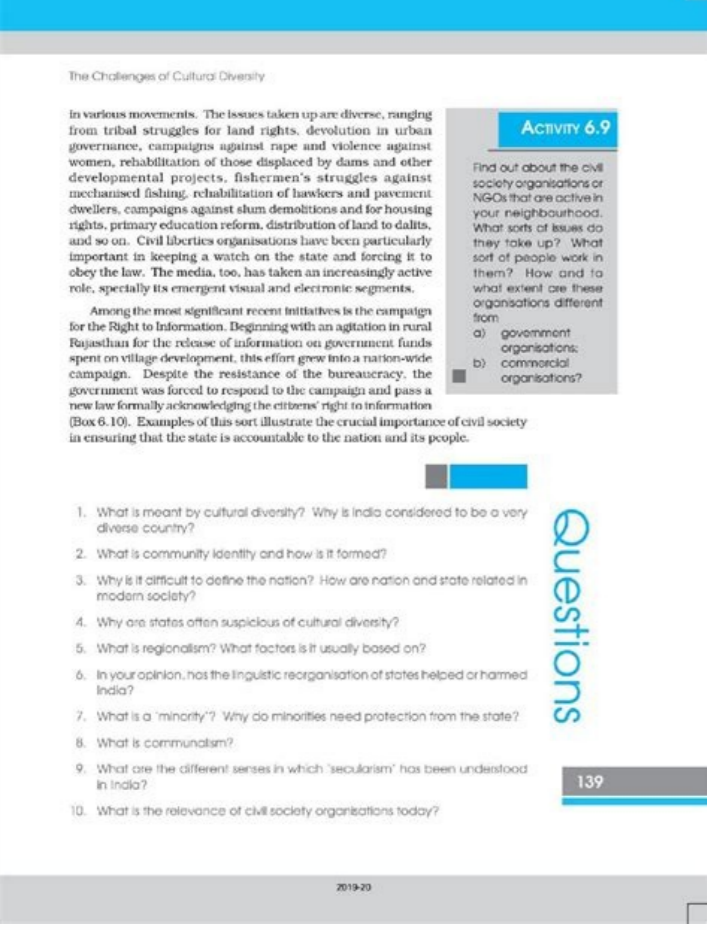

Party actions are always directed towards a goal which is striven for in a planned manner. The goal may be a 'cause' (the party may aim at realising a program for ideal or material purposes), or the goal may be 'personal' (sinecures, power, and from these, honour for the leader and followers of the party).

(Weber 1948: 194)

EXERCISE FOR BOX 3.16

- > Read the box on the next page carefully. You can also draw from other similar events in other towns and cities.
- > Identify the interests of the poor, the serving class, the middle class and the rich.
- > How do the different groups see the role of the street?
- > Discuss what you think is the role of the government?
 - > What is the role of consultancy firms like McKinsey? Whose interests do they represent?
 - > What is the role of political parties?
 - > Do you think the poor can influence political parties more than they can influence consultancy firms? Is it because political parties are accountable to the people that is i.e., they can be voted out?
